

Habitat for Humanity's Women Build

RiskCheck was pleased to be involved in the Habitat for Humanity's Women Build on May 1, 2009. The Women Build was not only about helping to build homes for needy families, but also it had a focus on promoting women as leaders. It also provided an opportunity for women to learn new trades and skills. Spirit, Empowerment, Solidarity, Fun, and Learning, were key themes which the women of RiskCheck took away with them that day.

“We had whole lot of Pride in working with a family to build a place they can call home.” Amanda Edwards.
